

Dear Families,

Good morning!!! It is Day 4 of our district school closure and we are missing all of our students' smiles, hugs, and personalities! I am hopeful that all of our families are well and are okay in this time of uncertainty and uncharted territory.

I am going to send daily communication to families in hopes that it brings a sense of comfort and ease knowing we are here, even though it is from a distance. The communication will be through email and/or Dojo, but a video or an all call may be in the midst over the next week or two. This is all in the hopes of staying connected and remaining in contact while we are shutdown.

Teachers will continue to respond to your questions and assist you in ways that are possible. Please know that all activities, links, and resources shared at this time are OPTIONAL for families and students. State testing, as you can imagine, will be adjusted, so we are not focusing on that in this moment. We are focusing on providing resources for families and students that will benefit their learning in a most useful and relevant manner without causing stress on families.

Please check our website, there are links that have been added for resources. We will also add information to the website as it becomes available. Also, check the MCS website and the home resources link. Central Office staff continually update and add new resources and information for families.

Please know you are able to reach out to me anytime you have a question and/or concern. I am available for you and am thinking of you daily and hoping that your families are all doing well. I am hopeful that we will be back together and all will be normal very soon.
